

The image shows a single page from an old handwritten manuscript. The page contains musical notation and text. The musical notation is written in a Gothic script, consisting of short vertical strokes and horizontal dashes, typical of early printed music notation. There are four staves of music, each with four horizontal lines. Below the staves, there is text in a Gothic script. At the top of the page, there is a small section of text followed by a staff of music. The middle section of the page contains two staves of music, with the first staff ending in a large, ornate bracket. The bottom section contains two more staves of music. The text below the music appears to be lyrics or a title, starting with the letter 'X'. The paper is aged and yellowed, with some foxing and staining.
