

The image shows a single page from an old handwritten manuscript. The page contains musical notation and lyrics. The notation is written in a stylized, cursive script, likely a form of musical shorthand or a local notation system. It consists of four-line staves, each with a unique set of symbols representing pitch and rhythm. Below the notation, there are lyrics written in a similar cursive script. The lyrics appear to be in a language that uses the Cyrillic alphabet, possibly Old Church Slavonic or a related ecclesiastical language. The handwriting is fluid and varies in size and style across the page, suggesting it was written by hand over time. There are some small, illegible marks and corrections scattered throughout the text.